This Standard Work on the Chinese Language, constructed on the basis of Kanghi's Imperial Dictionary, contains all Chinese characters in practical use, and while alphabetically arranged according to the sounds of the oldest dialect of China, the Cantonese, it gives also the Mandarin pronun-ciation of all characters explained in the book, so that its usefulness is by no means confined to the Cantonese Dialect, but the work is a practically complete Thesaurus of the whole Written Language of China, an-cient and modern, as used all over the Empire, whilst its introductory chapters sorve the purposes of a philological guide to the student.

A Supplement, arranged for being bound and used by itself, and containing a List of the Radicals, an Index, and a List of Surnames, will be published and sold soparately.

HONGKONG, MONDAY, JUNE 23, 1884.

A TELEGRAM clipped from one of our In-Mrs Cheng and party, Mrs Laurence, and dian exchanges states that the pension Mrs Woodruff, 2 European and 173 Chinese. voted by the British Parliament to the first Duke of Marlborough and his descendants is to be commuted by payment of the sum of £107,000. It was expected that some action would be taken at home in regard to what are known as perpetual pensions, Per Nom-vian, for Haiphong, 3 Euro- that is, pensions granted decades ago by Government to persons not only for their lifetime but to their descendants for ever. Per Fuchun, for Shanghai, 1 European, There was a great outery about these pensions in England a few years ago, and Mr Bradlaugh took upon himself the work of endeavouring to effect some refered respecting them. His exclusion from Parliament, > matter personally before that body. It is perhaps not very singular that to begun at 6.30 this evening. the families in receipt of these penalous we are indebted for one or two of the most | WE are requested to state that the Special hot-headed and uncompromising Tories of Jury summoned to try the Stander case the present day. Lord Randelph Church fixed for 10.30 to merrow, need not attend, ill is a son of the Duke of Mariborough, as the suit has been withdrawn.

that title, in, or will be, the recipient of a pention of £4,000 per annum from the Government, that is, if this commutation had not been made. In a recent series of Echoes of the Week, George Augustus Sala expressed his inability or disinclination to comment on political matters in these remarkable words :- Alas ! I am dabarred from commenting on politics at all. The political opinions which I have taken the liberty of holding ever since I had any sorious opinious whatsoever are comidered by a large body of respected readers to be of a gravely criminal nature; and whenever I presume to hint that the history of Toryism is the history of tyranny, cruelty bigotry, stupidity, ignorance, and obstruction, and not the history of Human Progress, I am violently upbraided or scornfully reviled. So I have nothing to say about the Franchise Bill, the Egyptian Sailed from San Francisco May 27th at Muddle, or the General Election. This is not a denunciation of Toryism that we can endorse. It does not appear to us Diemen's Straits, thence to Turnabout to hit the moving principle of the creed, namely, a sticking to the properties and privileges that have been handed down from father to son for generations. Mx Sala also does give Toryism the credit of often being a useful check mon the pre-cipitancy of Radicalism. Ford Randolph Churchill, as the member of a family of perpetual pensioners on the public, has certainly the strongest motives for advocating conservation, or the preservation creed. And the light horseman of the Tories'--he is now recegnised as one of the two leaders of the Party does his work well and energetically.

The policy of perpetual pensions is bad, from following it in recent times. As to Per Kremlin, at 4.30 p.m., on Tuesday, the Duke of Mariborough's pension, its perpetuity cannot be defended. The Duke was a great General, although unfortunately his talents were mainly expended in wart, the chief object of which was to carry out the narrow and selfish sims of thosa Per Thibet, at 11.30 a.m., on Saturday, in high places at the time. His victories, purchased by the expenditure of much blood and treasure, had little or no foundation in justice, and his campaigns were actually calamities. But a better reason for attacking this particular pension is that the services of the Duke were most liberally rewarded during his life of the S.S. Lennox received by Messrs, time. It has been calculated that the Dako of Marlborough and his wife drew together no less than £90,000 a year from the Co., Ltd., closed from this date to the revenues of the country. In addition to this enormous stipend he received the manor of Woodstock, as a gift, and some large grants of money on account of the famous victory.' The commutation granted by the Government is a most unsatisfactory one, because if the sum awarded be properly invested it will yield a return angually equal to the pension of the Duke. There are other perpetual pensions which were granted under the most questionable circumstances. It is said that if the moneys paid for pensions and compensations to the Dukes of Richmond and Grafton had been invested and compound interest reckoned, they would now amount to a sum exceeding the whole of the national debt, or say eight bundred millions sterling. ... Yet in neither of these cases was there the smallest pretence of sions are charged severally by Act of Parliament upon the Consolidated Fund; others are annually voted by the House of Commons, and the remainder are derived from interest on Consols, a sufficient amount of stock having been invested in the names of trustees for that purpose. It is to be hoped taht the Home Government, or Parliament, will deal with some of these pensions in a little less- liberal spirit than that swinced in regard to the Duke of Marlborough's. That several of these pensions were granted at the more caprice of the Sovereigns of the time, and were most mins, later than at Hongkong; at the unworthily bestowed, is beyond question. Barrier : 3 hrs. 15 mins.; at the Salt In many cases, we believe, it has become a most difficult task for the public to trace the present recipients of the pensions and At Pagoda Anchorage, Foochow, on the their connection with the original grantees.

College Boys' Debating Society took place perintendence of Capt. Jno. P. Roberts, yesterday, writes a correspondent, at the Literary Club Lecture-room, Mission House. There was a greater assemblage of boys than on the occasion of the opening of the Club. The Bishop, assisted by the Head Master of the College, again presided over the meeting. The President opened proceedings with a lengthy and well-worded speech, in which he fully expatiated on the advantages of the Society and asked for cooperation and support. The Secretary then spoke on 'The pursuit of knowledge in Hongkong,' and drew vivid pictures of some of our local gobe-mouches. Ignorance had had too long a reign already, he said, and erudition must take its place. The Hon. J. Russell Young, United States Minister, returned to Shanghai from Chinkiang by the Shanghai yesterday (June 16th). Mr E. Smithers, U.S. Consul at Chinkiang, was a passenger by the same

We are informed that the Selangor Tin Mirring Co. have made their first shipment smelted tin to Penang; the quantity, three tone, is necessarily small at first, as the tip stratum has only just been reached, but it is confidently asserted that the monthly deliveries of smelted ore will not he less than 100 tons. The prospects of the Company are considered very good. The Puyew, which left Shanghai for Swatow, broke down off Haechu, on Monday morning (June 16th), and returned to Shanghai for repairs. A snake measuring five feet six inches length has been captured in a yard here was of a poisonous description, and rather handsomely marked in cream-colour and Students [ Boys ....... 104 ] black. We hear that several of these reptiles have been seen in Shanghai lately.-

Tientsin. An atmospheric disturbance of a violent chung on the Peiho about 120 li to the west of Tientsin, on the 12th June. A strong easterly wind was blowing, and the sun was obscured by dust clouds, when the rumbling of distant thunder was heard, which quickly came very near. Then the boats on the river were hastily moored to the bank and made snug. Scarcely had these preparations been made, when heavy drops, of rain fell, followed by a rattling shower of hail-stones as large as eggs, which resounded from the roofs of the boats in an alarming fashion. The hail-storm lasted about a quarter of an hour: the rain continued about as much longer and the storm cleared away, the casterly wind, which had been interrupted by violent gusts from the north-west during the delivery of the storm, resuming its away as if nothing liad happened. Many, of the boats were damaged in various ways, one having had its 'house' completely blown off. Growing crops were seriously injured, fields of wheat being levelled, and the ears, broken off the stalks, were strewn between the rows besides other damage of a like nature. donkey and a bullock were observed dead on the slope of the bank. It appeared they had been harnessed to a loader cart and were caught in the storm. donkey, which in real life is one of the wisest of quadrupeds, retained his selfpossession, but the bullock, the least philosodrop of rain had fallen, and the fields were parched and dusty within a quarter of a mile of the deluge. It was pitiful to see the country people going about bemoaning the destruction of their hopes, and shewing by manual demonstration, the sizes of the hail-stones. 'We wanted min,' they ker

Currency is given to a report by one the Japanese papers that the Governmen intend ultimately to prohibit entirely ji riksha labour; and as a proliminary heavy tax will be soon levied on the vehicles. This resolution will cause r surprise; on the contrary, the wonder that the Government did not discourage th use of these men-power carriages fro the lowest social depths, and bears th stamp of his vocation in visible mark The work must, however, be profitable, i not far short of one in every hundred the population is engaged in it. spectors was recently held at the offices of the Home Department, when a certain Minister, whose office is closely connected with Foreign Affairs, is said to have addressed the officers present, and in the character but of peculiarly circumscribed course of his remarks to have intimated area occurred near a place called Yangthat, 'in the execution of Police duty it was not necessary to pry into the political opinions of citizens, or to attempt to unveil their private affairs or interfere with their movements in any way, providing they conducted themselves with becoming propriety. Police duties, he said, would be amply performed if officers took such measures as would conduce to public tranquillity; but what he particularly desired to draw the attention of the Inspectors to was that they should observe the utmost care to be prudent as well as zealous in the performance of their functions, which were requently of a delicate nature, and that their movements and manner of speech in addressing others should be such that they would be capable of bearing the strictest investigation upon enquiry, in the event of complaints being lodged against members of the force for the way in which they had performed their duty. This was necessary n regard to their conduct before their own countrymen, and it was also to be desired that the contact of the police with foreigners should be above repreach, as foreign intercourse was daily becoming more complicated and a greater number of foreigners were moving about in the interior than herefore. He (the speaker) trusted the officers present would bear his remarks in mind, and remember that their good conduct generally would tend to assist the authorities in carry-
